RDC Discussion:

Ken Kingshill – asked if the MOU is a statement or a contract?

Todd Barker – The MOU is an agreement between the town and New City Development, working together.

Ken Kingshill – asked for clarification on the TIF and if that would be addressed later.

Todd Barker – Confirmed that the TIF funding and bonds would be presented later as it is not a part of today's resolution.

Ken Kingshill – asked for more information on the minimum taxpayer agreement (MTA).

Adam Collins (New City Development) – the MTA is an agreement between the developer and the RDC. This is an agreement made to pay a set amount of property taxes back to the town by the developer. This benefits the town as it is a lean on the property, if the taxes are not paid then the property can be foreclosed. These taxes would be paid biannually. The agreement allows the town and developer to work together and decide what the minimum amount of property taxes will be paid over the term of the bonds.

Ken Kingshill – asked for clarification about the payments covering the interest and principal on the bond payments.

Adam Collins (New City Development) – this is different than previous projects, as the town has the 50% INDOT TIF. It is also stated that the developer's obligation is based off the funds the project generates.

Todd Barker – The difficult part of this project is the town was not planning to cover their portion of the road from the INDOT TIF. The Anson and Perry TIF's are what the town allocated for the road build project. The taxpayer agreement is an extra security for the bond purchaser.

Isaac Bamgbose (President & CEO, New City Development) – this needs to be part of the project agreement and further clarified as to why the MTA was added. There will be more clarification on this as the project moves forward.

Ken Kingshill – asked for clarification on 575 road phases and how the town's phase is being funded.

Isaac Bamgbose (President & CEO, New City Development) – New City Development is a part of phase 1, phase 2 will be constructed by the town, independent of New City Development.

Ken Kingshill – asked for information on where it is stated in the agreement, where the funding is coming from for phase 2. Asked if the language can be amended even after council approval. Ken provided an amendment to the agreement below.

Amendment: phase 2 infrastructure as shown in exhibit e, Phase 2 will be designed and constructed by the town and reimbursed by the proceeds of the infrastructure bond from the town.

Whitney Carter – This is an agreement not a contract and there will be changes made.

Ken Kingshill – asked how the process works once the language is changed on the document.

Isaac Bamgbose (President & CEO, New City Development)– the document will be fully negotiated and once an agreement has been decided upon the document will then return to the Town Council president for approval and signed off.

Motion: Resolution 2024-02: Ken Kingshill made a motion to approve resolution with the amendment; phase 2 infrastructure as shown in exhibit e, Phase 2 will be designed and constructed by the town and reimbursed by the proceeds of the infrastructure bond from the town. Cheryl Hancock seconded the motion.

Approved 3-0 pending the amendment as stated.
